"We will hold shared power and responsibility in the spirit of collaboration, mutual trust and listening – where leadership and power is distributed to where and who in the system is in the best position to exercise it."
• Who is in charge of governance?
• Who should have a voice in governance decision-making?
• What about our governance culture helps or hinders our ability to meet this aspiration?
• Is it possible for the board to be less the ‘home’ of governance and more the ‘host’ of governance?
• The skills, experience and knowledge required to govern are complex.
• Equity, diversity and inclusion are governance imperatives.
• Governance is designed to be adaptive and agile.
• Governance decision-making is more broadly shared.
• Technology rewires the way governance work is done.
